BOMBAY COTTON MARKET.

COTTON.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

Bombay, May 20.

A further sharp advance of 42 points in old crop and 31 to 33 points in new crop in New York futures has been reported to-day. The market advanced on shorts covering freely and trade buying. Liverpool has been reported 26 to 22 points up. The market improved on short covering:—

Messrs. Umrigar and Vesugar's New York friends Messrs. A. Norden & Co. cable under date 19th inst. as under:—

"Market advanced on short covering movement. Favourable crop outlook unchanged.

Messrs. Breul and Co. have recieved the following cable D/ 19th inst. (5-55 p.m.) from their Liverpool friends Messrs. Reynolds and Gibb:—

"Tone, shorts covering freely. Consider it a purchase on setbacks."

Messrs. The Cotton Agents Ld. have received the following cable D/ 19th inst. from their Liverpool friends Messrs. Grunning and Co.:—

"Market shows signs of improving. Spinners are fixing the price of cotton bought on call. There is more disposition to buy than to sell."

Owing to a further sharp advance in America the Marwari Bazar opened this morning steady at Rs. 440 i.e. Rs. 4 higher than yesterday's closing rate for F. G. Broach July/August. At the opening Shroffs were moderate buyers and the values improved to Rs. 441. Around this level Commission Houses and Bazar operators sold and the market receded to Rs. 439½ but again recovered to Rs. 441 on general buying. On Liverpool quotations being reported lower than expected the prices dropped to Rs. 436½ on Bazar operators selling and the market closed at Rs. 437. At Cotton Green the Bazar opened at Rs. 437½ and improved to Rs. 438 and closed at the same rate. Bazar operators bought July/August, whilst Exporting and Commission Houses were buyers for May.

F. G. Broach April/May opened at Rs. 437 and on Commission Houses and general buying the rate steadily advanced to Rs. 442, and the market closed easier at Rs. 440. There were practically no sellers to-day in this contract and consequently the rate superseded by Rs. 3 over the July/August contract rate. F. G. Bengal May and July were nominally quoted Rs. 378 and Rs. 374 respectively.

Our market for ready cotton was quiet but steady yesterday. There was some demand from Japan Exporters, whilst millwalas were buying sparingly. About 3500 bales are reported to have been sold.

To-day 600 bales Bengal 100 bales Punjab American and 1600 bales Dholleras were tendered. Total tenders upto date are as under:—

M. G. Bengal	3,200 Bales.
M. G. Punjab/American	7,100 bales.
M. G. Dholleras	3,800 bales.
M. G. Kadi/Viramgaon	700 bales.
M. G. Kalagin	100 bales.
Total	14,900 bales.

FROM THE MARATHI PRESS.

BACK TO AMRITSAR.

"Pragatika" (Jalgaon):—Whatever Government may say, it is satisfactory to note that, by Deshbandhu's speech at Faridpur, people are being convinced of the programme of Swarajya Party. We think the Swarajya Party has taken the first step in the unification of parties. If the Moderate Party is prepared to cooperate with the Swarajya Party it is no small gain. But the Moderate Party is occasionally subject to such fits that even though it may approve of the Swarajist programme it may not be able to join it. Though Dashabu has made such a clear and unambiguous pronouncement, Mrs. Besant cherishes her own suspicions with respect to that. This it seems that, those who held that obstruction was impossible, that the pistol of obstruction is rusted, are yet afraid of that policy. If that pistol is really rusted why insist on its being cast away? Surely. Dashabu's address will be the test of Government's statesmanship, Dr. Besant's earnestness and Moderates' moderation.

Mahatma in Bengal.

"Maharashtra" (Nagpur):—The E. I. Railway authorities have made special arrangements for Mahatma Gandhi's journey in Bengal, so that he should travel in first class with a second class ticket. Not only that, but the Railway authorities have made arrangements for many other comforts for him. All people will be delighted to learn that a European Railway Company should so zealously study the comforts of an Indian leader. But the question is, why should a foreign Railway Company show such unusual love for the Mahatma? During the last five or six years Mahatma has gone many a time to Bengal, but never was such a respect shown to him. This honour was not done even to Sir Surendranath Banerjee or Sir Provos Chandra Mitra!

Wanted—Sanction.

"Karmayogi" (Sholapur):—This paper writes a scathing article on Dr. Besant under the significant heading "Amt, there is the red dot on your forehead". Speaking of the want of sanction behind her Bill the paper says:—The words agitate, agitate' uttered by book-learned men will not avail. The word becomes an object of ridicule. The Moderates have already been tested. Hollow signatures, so the Bill will not bring any grist to the mill. If Dr. Besant thinks before hand of what she is to do after the rejection of the Bill, if she has the knack to bring behind her the consolidated support of all people, then alone can she hope to reap some fruit from her agitation.

A Sample.

"Vijayi Maratha" (Poona):—The following is a sample of how the Satyashodhakas abuse the Brahmans. Speaking of the Sangli State subjects Conference it goes on:—Recently a Brahman drama was performed in the Sadasukha Theatre under the showy name of Praja Parishad. A Brahman gentleman Chapkane by name was elected president. The president was a well-becoming actor for the whole play. It had no connection with the real subjects viz., the non-Brahmans. From the Managing Committee to the speakers, spectators were all Brahmans and even they did not go beyond the number of the Kayravas. The Brahman organisers left no stone unturned to advertize this drama. This was acted under the protection of the Police Guard. Who can say that this does not become the theatrical bravery of theatrical Deshbhaktas? We congratulate this dramatic company on having fixed a theatre for such a dramatic display.

Mr. Deshmukh's Address.

"Lokamata" (Yeotmal):—That Mr. Amrao Deshmukh should request Mahatma Gandhi if he cannot get over his intense love for the charkha, shows how deep his earnestness for attaining Swarajya is; the words are certainly not to be taken in a literal sense. Mahatma Gandhi does not feel the necessity of calling a meeting of the A. I. C. C. to consider the question of the Non-franchise. But when there is such a radical difference of opinion between the Maharashtrians and the present Congress programme and constitution, it would not be wise though perhaps statesmanlike, not to entertain that question. Therefore Mahatma Gandhi should hold a meeting of the A. I. C. C. and place the question before it. If he insists on turning the charkha, we do not think that the Congress will long remain alive. Will Ramdas's address at last open Mahatma Gandhi's eyes?

Maharashtra Revolt.

"Lokamanya" (Bombay):—It has become a fashion nowadays to call Maharashtra rebellious. And some imagine that it is a condemnatory epithet. But if one reads the history of revolt, it will have to be concluded into it as a virtue. Why is the spirit of revolt born and who rebels? If these questions are to be answered impartially and with judgment, none can stigmatize the adjective rebellious as full of censure. Whenever a thing is forced down our throat completely again our wish, and whenever the opponent, without being convinced by argumentation, goes on thrusting it down, there is no other remedy but rebellion. Under these circumstances the rebels, however they may be politically the objects of wrath to their opponents, morally they are not at all blameable.

Satara Conference.

"Prakash" (Satara):—According to our expectations the Satara Conference became full of new life, unity and force. The work of giving a new direction to Indian politics was done at Satara. Maharashtra decided at Satara to go back to the lines of national work laid down by Lok. Tilak. In doing its work Maharashtra cares not for any one's help, and this has been shown at Satara. 'Go back to Amritsar.' This is the cry of Maharashtra.

EDITORIAL RESPONSIBILITY

"Justice" of Madras writes:—

A question of considerable interest and importance to journalists all over India has recently cropped up in consequence of the resignation of Mr. K. M. Pannikar of the editorship of the Hindustan Times. It is said that Mr. Pannikar resigned his office because of an unpleasant hitch with the new proprietor of the paper, Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya. Mr. Malaviya, it appears, permitted, if he did not actually encourage, Mr. Pannikar's sub-editor to discuss matters concerning the conduct of the paper with him over the head of the editor. This offended Mr. Pannikar, and since no satisfactory amends were forthcoming he resigned the editorship and came away from Delhi. Now the question arises as to whether the Pandit was right in his conduct or not. The Indian Journalists' Association has already supplied the answer, and we do not think that any reasonable person can take the slightest exception to it. It has condemned the Pandit without any reservation whatever, and for our part we wholeheartedly support the view it has taken. The editor of a paper is, after all, the one person to be held responsible for the policy it follows and as such if the Pandit had anything to say about or against the conduct of his organ the proper person he should have discussed the matter with was the editor and none other. It is no doubt true that the financial backing is the Pandit's, but the obvious course for him to have followed, if he was displeased or dissatisfied with the conduct of the journal, was to have paid off the editor forthwith and appointed a new man in his place. Sub-editors may be exceptionally able and clever, but it is introducing an absolutely demoralising atmosphere into newspaper offices if they are patted on the back by proprietors and encouraged to backbite and slander their chiefs. To make the position clearer, how would the Pandit, we ask, if he were, say, a high official in the Government of India, have liked a subordinate of his being given direct access to the Viceroy and the freedom to discuss with the latter the policies and activities of his boss? Certainly the Pandit, who we know is an opponent of the diarchic system of government for the reason, among others, that it concedes to the Secretaries of Ministers the right of direct access to Governors, cannot be a supporter of the theory that sub-editors should have freedom and facilities for discussing with proprietors of newspapers the policy and conduct of their editors. We are certainly of opinion, therefore, that the Pandit has done a grave wrong to Mr. Pannikar. In this connection we may also draw attention to another of the evils which is steadily becoming manifest in the world of Indian journalism. Till recently most of our newspapers were owned, edited and managed by the same individual, and the capitalists had not found their way into them. This was mainly because the papers were not paying ones. Recently, however, the monied man has also come into the field, expecting handsome profits for his investment; though this by itself is not a bad development, there is the danger of the profession being corrupted and prostituted at times for profit-earning purposes. Moreover, there is the possibility of unnecessary interference with editorial responsibility as well, arising from a desire for self-glorification and self-aggrandisement on the part of proprietors. We know the case of a few honest men who had to throw up editorships because of their conscientious aversion to doing things which they felt in their heart of hearts to be immoral and unjustifiable. One case of this type we particularly remember. A proprietor who had plenty of money but very little brains wanted almost every day his editor not only to boost him and his friends, but, what was worse, he also wanted all the silly views and opinions of other brainless moneybags like himself to be featured in the columns of his paper. No amount of argument could convince him that compliance with his demand would cost the paper what little prestige and influence it had: he would say, on the other hand: "What do you care? I am finding money for running the show, why not do my bidding?" Matters grew worse from day to day, till at last the editor thought that it was better to beg in the streets for a while for supporting the large family he had than to play the monkey to the erratic tunes of his eccentric boss. We quote this instance simply to show how demoralising at times could be the influence resulting from unnecessary interference on the part of proprietors in the conduct of newspapers. As a rule, therefore, it is wise to let the editor alone to discharge the duties and responsibilities entrusted to him; if he is found unsatisfactory and incorrigible, the easiest method to mend matters is to pay him off, and not to insult him in the way Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya has obviously done.

SIMLA NOTES.

CONTROVERSY ABOUT PUBLIC SERVICES COMMISSION.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

SIMLA, May 13.

Let me begin this letter by noting a sense of extreme depression caused during the week by the anger of our Weather God and the unhealthy conditions that continue to prevail in the station. Rarely had weather office bulletins caused greater disappointment than this week. Without warning given by the daily forecasts Simla found itself plunged into cold as severe as in February and this fluctuation was particularly welcome because only a fortnight ago Simla was experiencing abnormal heat with temperature in the shade 8 degrees above normal. Then reaction came with vengeance and the temperature feel below the normal more than it had risen above it during the previous fortnight. But cold would not in itself have mattered much. It was accompanied by rain of the monsoon type and Anandale grounds became so wet that the programme of Gymkhana Races had to be abandoned. The Tennis enthusiasts who had arranged an early tournament before the monsoon broke out also felt having been outwitted and saw little prospect of enjoying the impending tournament because the bazaar gossip was that the rains were nothing short of advance guard of monsoon —chhota barsat—and that these would persist.

What has hit most the mass of population has been the attack of mild type of influenza which has raided almost every household. Indeed every year Simla, being overcrowded is becoming more and more unhealthy and the extent to which fever is prevalent this year has rarely been experienced after the outbreak of influenza epidemic in 1919 when it took away heavy toll of life. Fortunately however there are not abnormal deaths. Small Pox has however for the first time visited Simla on a threatening scale. About a dozen small-pox cases are reported to have occurred, but the prompt action of the health authorities the widespread vaccination that has been marked feature of life recently, and the prompt segregation of the cases has prevented the epidemic from spreading.

PUBLIC SERVICES COMMISSION.

The question of the constitution of a Public Services Commission has once again come to the forefront. Unlike Western Governments the autocracy enthroned in Simla, is most secretive and hatches its plans behind purdah, till it is in a position to confront the bewildered public with fait accompli. The issue of a Public Services Commission is of vital importance. If Indian opinion has been in favour of such a body it has been on the distinct understanding that an Independent tribunal to serve both the purposes of undertaking recruitment of Services and to adjudicate impartially the complaints submitted by Service officers should be constituted. provided the control over the Services is transferred from Whitehall to Simla. This proviso is of vital importance, constitutionally, because to have an Independent tribunal without the transferrence of control over the Services to Simla would mean the constitution of still another body above the Government of India wielding control over its agents. If Whitehall under the conservative regime is not prepared to transfer control to Simla, it cannot be ask India to be party to the setting up of a Independent tribunal, nor should the Government of India agree to such an abdication of its constitutional functions. Under those circumstances the Public Services Commission if constituted cannot be the body contemplated either by the Reforms Act or by the Lee Commission, but must discharge only subsidiary functions of making recommendations to the Government of India, and the latter must reserve the full right to accept or to differ from that judgment. Moreover everything will depend upon the constitution of the Commission itself. If, as is apprehended it is over-loaded with representative of Services, its judgments cannot inspire the confidence which otherwise it should. The Commission should contain majority of Indians, drawn from the ranks of public life and particularly the President. One Service representative should more than meet the requirements of justice, because the aggrieved party would leave no stone unturned to represent his point of view forcibly. There is however one danger in the situation to which prominent attention should be drawn. Every Indian witness before the Lee Commission conceded that it was desirable to secure the Services against political influences and to safeguard to an officer his normal promotion to the top of the service ladder. But that so far as selection and prize posts were concerned, the discretion of the executive authority, be he a Minister or a Government Member, should be unfettered in selecting the best man possible out of the cadre. This right is most valuable and any attempt to take away this right would cause grave dissatisfaction at the policy which would dictate such a course. Nor should an officer who felt aggrieved because he was not selected for the post above the normal grade be permitted to submit his case to the Public Services Commission. Such a concession would be suicidal to the healthy growth of our constitution. There is then the question of the Provincial Governments. Would they decide to utilize the services of the Central Commission or would they set up their own. Of course opinion among the provincial governments must differ on this point but their attitude should not be determined until they know the constitution of the central body, its functions and its power for good or evil. If the present reactionary tendencies prevail, then probably the best course for provinces would be to have their separate Public Services Commissions. It is a pity that Members of Assembly have gone into slumber after their Delhi sittings and are not addressing watchful and searching enquiries to Government with a view to keep it in touch with public feeling on this and various other subjects. Some Member should put in suggestion urging the publication of Government's provisional plans and proposals about the Commission so that public opinion may be expressed on them, before final decision is taken. The two fundamental points to be kept in view are that under no circumstances should the existing powers of the Government of India over the Services in the matter of administration be taken away and given to the Public Services Commission, without the corresponding and simultaneous change in the constitution transferring the control to Simla and that if the present constitutional position must remain in tact, so must remain unimpaired the existing control of the Government over the Services and the Public Services Commission if constituted must only perform the functions of a recommending body.

PARSI MARRIAGES.

A Parsi correspondent writes:—

"One wonders what Sir Thomas Bennett would think of the "Times of India" as it is being edited to-day. The sympathetic journalist very probably would turn in his grave at the perennial idiocy which finds prominence, particularly in its Current Topics columns. What would Sir Stanley Reed and Mr. Lovat Fraser think of the balderdash in which writers imported from overseas and Madras men unfamiliar with local conditions are allowed to indulge in. It is a matter of common knowledge to anyone who is acquainted with the general condition of India that marriages are not now so frequently as they used to be, say twenty years ago, and that advertisements are inserted in the dailies not only in the Parsi, but also in the Hindu journals. If the writer in the "Times of India" who, for want of better matter, scribes about the Parsis in an offensively ignorant vein, were to look round he would find that even educated Mussalmans resort to advertisement columns for matrimonial purposes. Such advertisements are to be found in all the leading Hindu papers,—the "Hindu" the "Leader", the "Bengali," the "Tribune," to mention a few. To prove that Mussalman papers are not without them, I give an advertisement which appeared in your Lahore contemporary of the "Muslim Outlook" only a few days ago:—

"WANTED.—A beautiful educated Sunni girl for a young graduate of Aligarh, earning Rs. 300 per month. Communicate with Shabbir-Ul-Hasan, B.A., Bengali Kothi, Muslim University, ALIGARH."

BOMBAY MUNICIPAL VOTERS

FACILITY TO APPLICANTS.

Mr. R. D. Kapil Assistant Secretary B. N. M. Party writes:—

Several Wad District Congress Committees have agreed to the arrangements proposed by the Bombay Nationalist Municipal Party, for providing facilities to the public in having their names enrolled on the Bombay Municipal Electoral Roll. A copy of the Municipal Electoral Roll has been kept at each of the Ward Congress Committees' Offices, for free inspection by the public. Printed forms of applications for enrolment of new voters in Engish, Marathi and Gujrati, have also been supplied to the Congress Committees for free distribution among the applicants. The following are the addresses of the Ward District Congress Committees' Offices:—

1. A—Ward District Congress Committee's Office, 93. Bazar Gate Street, Fort.
2. B—Ward District Congress Committee's Office, Union Society, Mandvi.
3. C—Ward District Congress Committee's Office, Kalbadevi Road, Bhuleshwar.
4. D. Ward District Congress Committee's Office, The Congress House, Girgaum Back Road.
5. E—Ward District Congress Committee's Office, 2. Ripon Road, Near Parsee Statue, Byculla.
6. F—Ward District Congress Committee's Office, Gaswala Building, Parel.
7. G—Ward District Congress Committee's Office, Olinger Building, Lady Jamsetji Road, Dadar.

The only qualification for becoming a voter is that one should be above the age of 21 and pay a monthly house rent of not less than Rs. 10. But all applications should be sent to the Municipal Commissioner before 31st May 1925. It is therefore the duty of every citizen of Bombay who is possessed of the qualifications for becoming a voter, but whose name does not appear on the electoral roll, to rush up to any of the above mentioned Congress Offices or the Bombay Nationalist Municipal Party's Office at Arya Bhavan, Sandhurst Road West, Girgaum, and obtain a printed form of application together with necessary information and assistance. The time is too short and this opportunity of claiming their long-forgotten right of citizenship should not be lost by the inhabitants of the foremost city of India.

MAHATMA GANDHI'S VIEWS ON BIRTH CONTROL.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—Your paper of the 17th March containing Mr. Gandhi's article on Birth Control has just reached me, and as he speaks against scientific birth control saying that: "The reasoning underlying the use of artificial methods is that 'indulgence' is a necessity of life. Nothing can be more fallacious", I want to make it plain to your readers that he has entirely misunderstood the scientific facts behind the use of birth control, and is misleading the public by very dangerous and false conclusions. No scientific birth controller claims that 'indulgence' is necessary; but we do claim that the proper physiological use of the sex function is just as valuable and important as the proper physiological use of the digestive function. Both nourish and enrich life. Those who talk against birth control always speak as though the use of sex union was to be compared with gluttotny, and like Mr. Gandhi then go on to say that "it is good for a person who overfeeds to have an ache . . . It is bad for him to indulge his appetite and then escape the consequences by taking tonics or other medicines". That is, of course, true, but the argument is false when they pretend, as opponents do, that to use sex union without having children is the equivalent of over-eating.

Look at it the other way: I agree that self-control and an abstemious life as regards food is wise and right but would not everybody, even the ascetic, laugh if I said, you must live totally without food for ten years. That is exactly what people say about sex life. You must go without it totally for years, and if you use it at all, even infrequently, without having a child, you are indulging. How unspeakably ridiculous! We as scientists know that the sex act in human beings has a threefold function: that of nourishing and enriching the man; that of nourishing and enriching the woman and of procreating a child. These three functions can all be separated or all combined. Science makes it possible for the participants in the sex act to nourish and enrich others lives, and to procreate children when they are in a physical condition to beget healthy and good children, and not otherwise.

The unbalanced view of persons ignorant of physiological functions, as Mr. Gandhi appears to be, are dangerous quite as dangerous as those who would defend unbridled passion. What humanity needs is a high ideal applied to life and guided by scientific knowledge.—Yours, etc.

DEATH FROM OPIUM POISONING.

APPLICATION TO EXHUME BODY.

An interesting situation has developed in the case in which Rao Bahadur B. N. Athavle, Coroner, held an inquest recently on the body of one Rahimatbai (Wife of Kazi Dawood Kazi Alli a Mahomedan residing at Gunpowder Road,) who died of the effects of opium poisoning, as already reported in these columns.

It will be remembered that at the inquest held on the body of Rahimatbai on the 10th instant evidence was led to show that Kazi Dawood Kazi Alli was in monetary trouble. A money-lender, to whom he had mortgaged the house was pressing him for the money and had threatened to take steps. Kazi Alli purchased some opium a fortnight before the incident with a view to put an end to his life and kept the drug with Rahimatbai Kazi Alli being hard pressed and worried wrote on the 9th instant a letter to the Commissioner of Police saying that he was committing suicide owing to financial worry and asked Rahimatbai to give him the opium. Rahimatbai brought the drug, wrote a similar note and after giving a part of the opium to Kazi Alli swallowed the rest herself saying she did not care to live without him. Kazi Alli also took the poison, but a doctor was sent for who immediately removed both the patients to the J. J. Hospital where Rahimatbai succumbed to the effects of opium poisoning while Kazi Alli survived.

At the inquest held by the Coroner on the body of Rahimatbai the jury returned a verdict of death by opium poisoning, but the jury remarked that the husband Kazi Dawood Kazi Alli had abetted her in administering the opium.

Kazi Dawood was immediately arrested by the police in view of this verdict and placed before Mr. J. M. D'Sa, the Sixth Presidency Magistrate, charged with abetement of suicide. Mr. Frank Olivera Advocate, appeared, for the accused. His Worship after going through the evidence intimating his intention of committing the accused to the High Court Criminal Sessions to take his trial and would pass final order on Friday next.

DECEASED A PARSI LADY.

After the account of Rahimatbai's suicide was published in the newspapers, Mr. Nowroji Goawala, a merchant of Deolali, came to Bombay to make enquiries as to who this Rahimatbai really was, as Kazi Dawood had more than one wife including Rahimatbai, alias Ratanbai, the daughter of Mr. Nowroji. It appeared that Ratanbai was formerly a Parsi lady and was married to a Parsi gentleman and had three or four children. By some chance she came in contact with Kazi Dawood and an attachment was formed with the result that her husband divorced her through the Parsi Matrimonial Court. She then lived with Kazi Dawood and assumed the named of Rahimatbai. Mr. Nowroji Goawala, father of the deceased, on learning that it was his own daughter Ratanbai who had died of the effects of opium-poisoning felt very much for her fate.

APPLICATION FOR EXHUMATION.

It is understood that Mr. Nowroji Goawala, the father of deceased, is going to send a representation to the Government to allow him to exhume the body of his late daughter Ratanbai with a view to give the last solace to her soul by taking her remains to the Tower of Silence. He also contemplates, it is understood, taking action against Kazi Dawood for not informing him of the demise of his daughter as otherwise he thinks he would have given her the last rites according to the Parsi instead of Muslims, customs.

CHARGE OF USING FALSE TRADE MARK.

CASE COMPOUNDED.

At the Esplanade Police Court before Mr. N. D. N. Khandallawalla, Acting Third Presidency Magistrate, Jehangir Sorabji Patel charged Anandrao S. Korgaonkar and Darsi Maganlal with using a false trade mark and making a false trade description under the Merchandise Marks Acts and abetment.

Mr. Sorab Kapadia, Advocate, appeared for complainant while Mr. Gadkari pleader defended the accused.

The facts of the case as alleged by the complainant were that the accused palmed off methalyted spirit and inferior quality of cologne water under the name of Huschkes Eau-de-Cologne, a brand of Eau-de-Cologne, which had acquired a reputation in the Indian market. The complainant was the Managing Director of Messrs. Patel Ltd., who were the accreditated agents of Messrs. Peter Mulhaus of Burg Rottgen Krels Neumar, Manufacturers of Huschke's Three Star Eau-de-Cologne.

Several people were passing off spurious stuff on the public as genuine Huschke's cologne water. They were prosecuted in the High Court with success. About the 18th March a telegram was received from Karachi that inferior quality of cologne water was again on sale in the market under the name of Huschke. Investigations showed that some bottles of the imitation stuff were found in the shop of Marques and Co., Chemist of Dabul Street, which he said he purchased from the second accused. The bottles, neck wrapper were the property of Huschke's, but the seal, ribbon and cork screw were not theirs. Moreover, the stuff contained in the bottles was not genuine cologne water, but methlyated spirit. On March 24, Marques and Co. informed the complainant that the man was again in his shop with bottles of imitation cologne water. Their Manager went to the shop seized the goods and got the man arrested He was then taken to the Princes Street Police Station, who gave the name of the accused as manufacturers of the spurious goods.

ANOTHER CHARGE COMPOUNDED.

Both the accused along with others were further charged with cheating Marques and Co. in that they passed off methylated spirit as cologne water.

Mr. H. B. Spencer, prosecuted.

Mr. Gadkari, pleader on behalf of the accused requested to allow the case to be compounded but His Worship was inclined to take a serious view of the case. But Mr. Gadkari however, brought it to his Worship's notice that the spurious botttles were on the market for a very short time—only a month and the accused undertook to pay compensation and not to put any more spurious stuff on the market.

His Worship allowed the cases to be compounded on the accused paying Rs. 600 as compensation to the complainant.

SYCE'S FATAL FALL.

Sumar Bihari (25) a Syce residing in Adamji's chawl at Ripon Road, went on the loft of his house to bring down some hay on Monday night, when he lost his balance and fell down bleeding from the head. He was removed to J. J. Hospital where it was found that the base of his skull fractured. He died on Tuesday.

At an inquest held by the Coroner the jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

FATAL COLLAPSE OF STABLE.

At about 6 p.m. on Tuesday evening a stable on Parel Road collapsed and two men, viz. Punjia Ganu (30) and Karbhari Tunaji (4) died in the stable. The stables belonged to Lalji Lakhudas.

At an inquest held by Rao Bahadur B. N. Athavle, Coroner, on Wednesday Tunaji Ramji, the father of the second deceased said the pillars, on which the structure of the stables was built were getting rotten. He spoke to the owner of the stables several times about this but he used to turn round and tell witness to mind his own business. He had drawn the attention of the owner again as recently as a fortnight ago.

Further hearing was adjourned.

"CO-OPERATE WHERE YOU CAN."

HON. MR. DEHLVI AT SATARA AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITION.

In the course of his speech delivered at the opening of the Agricutural and Industrial Exhibition at Satara, on the 10th evening which was held under the auspices of the Maharashtra Provincial Conference the Hon. Mr. Dehlvi, Minister of Excise and Forests, said :—

It is impossible to over-estimate the importance of the part which industry and agriculture play in the social and political life of a nation. They are the very blood of the body politic. the very breadth of society, and you can not conceive of a nation without these essentials of national existence. Prosperous industries and flourishing fields, next to sound moral principles are the only sure foundations on which any enduring edifice of national greatness can be raised. These two, therefore, must ever command the most visilant care and attention in any scheme of national economy. No national architect and no Government which claims to protect the interests of the people and, endeavours to bring about national regeneration can afford to minimise, much less ignore, their importance. All this applies with greater force to this ancient country of our and if she is to reoccupy her proper place amongst the nations of the world and revive the the glorious traditions of her hoary past. Every ounce of energy that can be spared will have to be spent on the restoration of our Industries and Agriculture and the education of our people. Any neglect of our duties in that direction, any diversion of our attention and energy from these vitals of our national programme can only be treated as a greatest crime against the nation I, therefore, congratulate you on associating this Agricutural and Industrial section with your political Conference, and wish to assure you, if an assurance be needed that your representatives in charge of the administration of these important departments are doing their best to advance and protect these interests of the country. But nothing can be achieved without the help and co-operation of the people themselves. If you and I take our national responsibility lightly, sulk away and do not stand shoulder to shoulder, no organisation in the world, however well intentioned and efficient it may be, can effect anything.

"CO-OPERATE WHERE YOU CAN"

Co-operate where you can. Oppose where you must. But whether co-operating or opposing we must be moved by one consideration and one consideration only, and that is the consideration of our national interests. See how best we can serve them. Let us be constructive in what we do.

We are all Indians and proud that we are Indians. We all want Swaraj for our country and want to see it established as soon as possible. No true Indian can think otherwise. But let us work for it; let us prepare ourselves for the responsibilities which will fall on our shoulders so that when it comes to Swaraj we may not be caught unprepared for it. Let us organise our national life; and Agriculture and Industries together with Education are the very cornerstone of our national structure.

To apply ourselves to this stupendous constructive task we should protect the industries already in existence and develop new ones, for which the national resources of our country and the aptitude of our people are pre-eminently suitable, introduce new and improved methods of agriculture, provide necessary facilities to increase the yield of the land, already cultivated and bring fresh areas under cultivation where the demand for it and other cognate considerations necessitate it. In this connection I can appropriately add that now that protection has been afforded to the important and growing steel industry in this country, and the countervailing excise duties on the equally important textile industry, have been reduced, we can confidently look forward to wider and more intensive activities in the fiield of our industrial development and exploitation. Possibilities of the introduction and development of other industries, both cottage and large scale, have to be explored both in the economic and the social interests of the country. And I am sure I am echoing the sentiments uppermost in the minds of the majority of the national well-wishers of India when I say that one of the most important of these cottage industries, viz., spinning and weaving has already got the attention of the country focussed on it. I do not wish to take up your time in a detailed survey of the subject. The Agricultural Department has exhibited at your request certain implements and machines which, when explained and the exhibition on the whole, will no doubt suggest to you a number of them, to which national energies could be profitably employed. I should like however, to point out that expert knowledge of Government officers who have made a special study of these subjects should be freely and advantageously utilized and young and capable men and enterprising capitalists, should all join hands and exploit the natural resources of our Presidency to their fellest extent.

CO-OPERATIVE MOVEMENT.

Mr. Dehlvi then went on to refer to the Agricultural resources of Satara and the ways in which they could be developed. He also emphasized the need of organising Taluka develpoment associations. He then said :—

Every well-wisher of the country will be glad to welcome and appreciate the joint efforts of the Agricultural, the Co-operative, and the Revenue Departments who all combined are zealously furthering the Agricultural and Industrial cause of the country. The Divisional Boards and the Taluka Development Associations which are practically non-official are successfully carrying on the research and propaganda work. The hand of the Government official in them is a friendly hand of a well-wisher and adviser. Similarly, the co-operative societies are working as non-official forces in the best interests of the country, more specially in the interests of the farmers. The greater the interest our people take in these societies the more assuredly will they bring about the salvation and the prosperity of the agricultcrists, which in turn means the prosperity of the country. The cooperative societies not only raise and provide capital but build credit, and character, teach business and are generally educative. Some of the cotton, seed and implement societies are rendering yeoman service to the producer and consumer in the country and I do not feel the slightest hesitation in declaring that the future is with Co-operation. Their aid and contribution towards the Cooperative movement indicate the sympathy and interest evinced by Government on behalf of the farmer.

In conclusion I can not but emphasise that the whole future of our agricultural and more particularly industrial development largely depends on the non-official efforts and private enterprise. Our salvation lies primarily in our own hands and if we cooperate and take advantage of the opportunities as they offer themselves to us and put our shoulders to the wheel we shall speedily bring about the industrial and agricultural regeneration of our own country and win for us in the economic world the place which the natural wealth of our country, the special aptitude of our people, and the rich treasure of our past traditions entitle us to.

MRS. BESANT AND HER BILL.

IMPRESSIONS OF MAHARASHTRA TOUR.

BOMBAY, May 19.

Doctor Besant arrived in Bombay yesterday after a week's educative campaign in the Maharashtra. Summing up the results of her tour she observed: Messrs. Jamnadas Dwarkadas, Shiva Rao and myself went to Satara on the invitation of the Chairman of the Reception Committee and the President of the Conference with a view to placing the Commonwealth of India Bill before the Maharashtra Political Conference and if possible, to gain its support.

VALUE OF SATARA RESOLUTION

Referring to the attitude of the Maharashtra Political Conference towards the measure, Doctor Besant said: Mr. Jamnadas Dwarkadas and myself addressed the subjects committee of the conference giving an outline of the Bill and reasons for its support. The committee drafted the following resolution which was passed unanimously by the conference: "This conference expresses gratification, at the preparation, after great effort of the Commonwealth of India Bill by the National Convention mainly consisting of representatives of the various Legislatures, for presentation to Parliament, and it will a matter of satisfaction to the conference if Doctor Besant has an opportunity of getting it introduced and carried successfully through Parliament". I addressed a very large public meeting in the evening of the first day of the conference giving a fairly full resume of the Bill and asking for support from all politicians interested in the Freedom of India. This resolution was brought up on the second day of the conference, proposed by Mr. D. V. Gokhale, Editor of the "Mahratta" and se onded by Mr. Saptharishi, M.L.C. and carried unanimously. Its special value lies in the fact that it recognises the representative character of the National Convention. I may say that I have presented this Bill to very large audiences in Calcutta, Benares, Delhi, Lucknow Bombay, Cawnpore, Madras, Vellore, Chingleput, Satara and Poona and it has invariably been received with great interest and approval. The time and labour expended on it before it took its final form in April of this year has certainly not been wasted. Many valuable amendments have been proposed and incorported in the Bill and as it contains a clause giving power to the Indian Parliament to amend it if necessary there is no reason why all parties should not join in its support. There is no other measure in definite from before the country and there would be on object in starting a new from the beginning after the Bill has reached its present stage. The announcement of its completion has raised a very great amount of interest in England. For though during our visit to England last year we had definitely promised that it should reach England in the following May, it was hardly thought possible that the promise could be carried out.

NO SEVERANCE FROM BRITAIN

Asked as to whether the question of Independence or Dominion Status had come into prominence in her tours, Doctor Besant observed: As I have very often said, believing as I do that a country has the right to self-determination. I do not and cannot deny India's right to Independence, if she chooses to claim it. But I do not believe that England would readily listen to such a claim, and India has no force whereby she could press it. While England would certainly use military force to resist it, there is no sign of the existence of any strong party in India which is prepared to make it. It has been voted down several times in the National Congress and I personally believe that severance of the connection would be to the lasting injury both of England and India. India is the natural leader of Asia and her link with Britain as a free nation would avert the possibility of a wide spread war between the two continents. For these reasons and for others a separate existence for India is not a practical political question. Gandhiji has stated more than once that he wishes for Dominion Status within the Empire and his somewhat hasty objection to the recognition of the King Emperor as the head and Protector of the Commonwealth of India which occurs in the preamble of the Bill as well as in various clauses is not consistent with his own expressed view. In fact, while objecting to it, he himself stated that the recognition was necessary in a Bill to which England was asked to give his assent. I may point out that I agree with Mr. C. R. Das in the view that Dominion Status, that is, a position equal to that of other countries in a great federation of Free Nations is a higher ideal than the isolation of independence. Other objections which were raised in earlier stages have been met by amendments in the final draft of the Bill. Under these circumstances it would be the height of unwisdom to withhold support from the Bill. It is too late now to talk of any further intermediate steps. The Bill places India as a partner in a Federation of Free Nations and nothing beyond it can be wished for by those who desire to maintain the British connection.

Doctor Besant is leaving Bombay to-night for Madras.

TOWARDS UNITED CONGRESS

"I have just accepted", said she "an invitation to attend the Godavari District Conference and shall, if possible, attend any such conferences that may be held before I leave for Engand in the beginning of July. It has been suggested by a discussion in the daily press that a small meeting might be held with about a dozen leaders, among whom I notice my own name is included, to see if a United Congress is not possible. Any attempt to make it once more possible, so that it may be representative of all political parties will have my heartiest co-operation. It is lamentable that we should quarrel amongst ourselves when a united demand for Swaraj would make India's Freedom inevitable."—A. P.

LIBERAL DISCOVERIES.

While party-fusionists are considering the prospects of a common platform, the Moderates are inclined to see before them the victory of their sect. The "Leader" remarks that the next move lies with the Swarajists, Sir Provash Mitter supplements the view with the assertion that the principles of the Liberal Party stand vindicated to-day; and Sir Surendranath Banerjea improves vagueness by this declaration: "We shall support the Government if the Government deserves it and oppose it when the sacred interest of the Motherland demands the pursuit of such a policy." All these statements are contestable but the Liberals seem to think that they may hit two birds with one stone and at the same time get back the stone. The next move does not rest with the Swarajists since their appreciation of the Councils has been vindicated by the experience of Moderates in office. The value of maxims quoted by any party depends upon the conditions to which they are applied, the activity they generate and the positive results they produce. Though the Moderates claimed to have saved the Reforms, the citation of Victorian sentiments could not prevent their discovery of their true worth. "When I accepted office", said Sir Provash Chandra Mitter before the Muddiman Committee, "I certainly thought that given the necessary goodwill, mutual forbearance and understanding by each half of the Government of the difficulties of the other half, diarchy was not only possible but capable of successful working. Soon after joining Government I realised that the system was unsatisfactory and unworkable." Politics is the subject of active life on a collective scale and no doctrine drawn from some defunct philosopher can mitigate the falsity of a judgment upon a specific issue. If the Moderates succeeded in weakening our limited moral energy behind the non-co-operation movement, they should remember that their valuation of the Reforms was essentially unsound. Their code of judgment has in one part at least been proved to be fallible. The Swarajists were described by Dr. S K. Datta as great in faith if small in the sum of the works they could do against adverse circumstances. Nor do they fully subscribe to the efficacy of mamool methods. To a certain point organised loyalism furnishes results. If the Swarajists introduce new methods—and obstruction is as constitutional a method as it is peaceful—it is based on the principle that they cannot be parties to the spending of supplies they cannot regulate. Their action is incomplete in the sense that they have not launched upon the non-payment of taxes. Are the restricted ways of the Liberals and Independents any more consistent? They have tooth and nail opposed the award of a crore and a half annually to the Imperial Services. If they are strict logic-choppers they should at once practise the non-payment of a corresponding portion of their income-tax. They reduce the total demands of the bureaucracy and refuse to complete their protest by the non-payment of the due fraction of their taxes. They sneer at the Swarajists for not enforcing their general protest by an organised campaign. Quotations from Burke and Mill will not logicalise the basis of opportunism run upon limited liability principles, and if the Liberals desire unity for the general welfare of the country they should be a little more critical of themselves and a little more lenient to the motive and policy of Swarajists whom they tactlessly patronise as their eventual followers.

Sir Provash Mitter opines that Swarajists have in repeating their policy of honourable co-operation and dominion status for India, "accepted the bed-rock of Liberal principles although the acceptance has been without acknowledgment." This is a pretension at which we must express surprise. All through the suffering and turmoil of the non-co-operation movement, its leaders were in favour of honourable co-operation. Who would prefer the anguish of a campaign to the prospects of honourable co-operation? Co-operation on honourable terms subsists between equals and it is the reverse of subservient co-operation. Describe the nature of Indo-British co-operation by a decent epithet—call it honourable or self-respecting or genuine or legitimate or merely proper—and the entire country stands in favour of it. Honourable co-operation has been the hope and the watchword of the Congress through all its days of torment and tribulation. For Sir Provash Mitter to make it a distinction of the Liberals or to insinuate that they consistently practised it, is to exceed the limits of truth and courtesy. In regard to the honourable co-operation sampled by Ministers, it would be well to recall the testimony of no less a veteran than Sir Chimanlal Setalvad "The whole basis of the new constitution that the administration of the transferred departments was to vest in Ministers responsible to the Legislative Council, was subverted." So much for the manner of subverted status and honourable co-operation furnished by the Reforms. If the Congress took a more orthodox view of honourable co-operation Sir Provash Mitter ought not to be captious about it after the witness of due experience; he should not appropriate it as the exclusive mark of the Liberals; he is certainly wide of the truth when he complains against its acceptance by the Swarajists "without acknowledgment." We need not dwell further upon the idea of honourable co-operation which is supposed to have been purloined by the Swarajists from the treasure-house of the Moderates. Another bed-rock principle which the piratical Swarajists have taken out of the code of Liberal principles is the objective of dominion-status. The programme of the Swarajya party published in October 1923 advocates the speedy attainment of full dominion status, "that is, the securing of the right to frame a constitution adopting such machinery and system as are most suited to the conditions of the country and to the genius of the people." If honourable co-operation and dominion status are the bed-rock principles of the Liberals they are equivalent to the purpose of self-determination espoused by the Congress Sir Provash Mitter declares: "The acceptance of the creed of honourable co-operation and of dominion status as the political goal of India leaves little justification for the Swarajists to stand out from the Liberal Party on any vital question." The facts are correct, but the invitation for Swarajists to step under the umbrella of Sir Surendranath Banerjea is rather diverting. Sir Provash is rather late in the discovery of what had been obvious all the time, and he must now be feeling like the great savant who for five years kept vociferating that the poems attributed to Shakespeare were not written by Shakespeare at all but by another fellow of the same name. Sir Provash should, like his discerning colleague Mr. Prithwis Chandra Ray, think of joining the majority-party of Swarajists whose principles are so palatable to him as to awaken a weird sense of their genesis and identity.

There will be general agreement with Sir Provash Mitter upon his conclusion: "The time is therefore opportune to come to a real understanding between all political parties on the one hand and the British on the other." These are golden words which emphasise the manner of exceeding self-restraint and sincere conciliation with which Mr. Das attempted to disarm the suspicions of English critics. Our unity alone will not secure for us the reciprocities of honourable co-operation from Britain If we are united in our demands we shall require every art of agitation which the experience of the country is able to furnish. By all accounts, the BritishGovernment are rivetting up the steel-frame in India and rendering the way of negotiation toilsome and obstructive. While secret confabulations are in progress at Whitehall there is every indication that the authorities are playing for time. The Muddiman reports, according to Earl Winterton, are to be discussed and re-discussed in the Assembly; they will be minuted upon at length until the weary wait of 1929 is concerted in elaborate politeness. The mission of Lord Reading has intensified foreign recruitment without advancing the cause of a settlement. Major Graham Pole writes of Lord Reading in the columns of a contemporary: "His present attitude does not seem to be a very hopeful one from the Indian point of view as, I understand, he does not see any necessity for making any changes with regard to India at present. I imagine that even Lord Birkenhead can hardly take up a more Conservative attitude." The game is entirely in favour of the Services. There is the Commonwealth of India Bill, a project without specific sanctions behind it, but the mere dangling of a royal commission may be enough to turn well-disposed Moderates into the routine of expectations. The prospect is gloomy for a tranquil settlement, and if the fact is vivid to politicians of orthodox persuasion like Sir Provash Mitter, they will rapidly strive to rally round the banner of the Congress and convert into a first-class fighting institution supported by all the lessons of our experience—for a final and victorious struggle.

PERSIA RESUGENT.

Reuter's has cabled a summary of Lord Balfour's statement on Persia made in reply to Lord Lamington's enquiry for information, but we are left in the dark both about the nature of Lord Lamington's enquiry and the immediate cause of it. Sometime ago in reply to a question in the House of Commons, Mr. Chamberlain stated that there was no threat to British interests in the prevailing political situation in Persia which would necessitate special measures. Because of India and Mesopotamia Britain is interested politically in Persia and she has also very considerable trade interests, specially in the rich oil fields worked by the Anglo-Persian Oil Company. But if Britain has no intention of interfering with the independence of Persia, there is nothing in the present state of that country to make her anxious about her interests. On the contrary there could be no greater safeguard for those interests than the existence of a strong central and national Government in Persia under a capable ruler such as Reza Khan. Lord Balfour referred to the allegations of American critics that England was behaving in a manner which was calculated to interfere with Persia's independence and described them as quite ill-informed because, he declared, Great Britain's only policy under any Government was to see that Persia was independent and free. While the declaration is welcome, it is hardly consistent with the past history of Persia. We may put aside the Anglo-Russian Agreement of 1907 which divided Persia into two spheres which were virtually British and Russian Protectorates, and Anglo-Persian Agreement of 1919 through which Lord Curzon sought to monopolise the control over Persia but which was, fortunately, denounced by Ziauddin. Students of recent Persian history, however, cannot forget that in 1909 Sheikh Khazal of Mohammerah, was created a K.C.I.E., and the Persian Government was duly informed that the British had special relations with him and that he would be upheld "in the event of any encroachment of his rights." This was done because the Sheikh had cast his lot with the British and had given assurances that he would assist them in furthering their commercial interests. Taking advantage of the weak position of the Central Government he, like several other chieftains, paid no tribute to Tehran. But Reza Khan made the Central Government feared and respected as it had not been for several decades and the Sheikh, though he raised the banner of revolt, had to yield to superior force. Some weeks ago, having broken his pledge of subordination to the central authority he was arrested at the order of the Persian Government. And now we have the statement made by a British statesman that he is pleased to learn that the relations between the Sheikh, in whom "Britain has great confidence" and who is under Persian Suzerainty, and the Persian Prime Minister are now everything that could be desired. This statement shows the difference between Persia of to-day and Persia of 1909 when she was warned that the British Government would uphold the Sheikh "in the event of any encroachment of his right." The difference is due largely to the work of one man—Reza Khan, the present Prime Minister—who has translated his idea of "Persia for the Persians" into a reality and has extorted the tribute from a spokesman of the British Government that Persia's finances are far more favourable than those of many of the more powerful States of the world and that the British rejoice that her independence is secure and that her prosperity is increasing. It is true that the improvement in Persia's finances is largely due to the American advisers, but the efforts of the latter would have been of little avail but for the fact that Reza Khan put the affairs of his country into order.

Notes of the Day.

Lord Allenby's Resignation.

According to the "Manchester Guardian" the reason for Lord Allenby's resignation is believed to be that he has been pressed to resign as Government is not satisfied with the line he took upon the murder of Sirdar Sir Lee Stack. Evidently Lord Allenby, soldier as he is, carried out the instructions of the Foreign Office with such show of military force as to make the humiliation of Zaghloul Pasha and his countrymen greater than his superiors had intended it to be. But the policy that Lord Allenby carried out was not his own but that dictated to him by the Foreign Office which having by its actions lost England's dignity and reputation, now seeks to make him a scapegoat. It is no wonder, therefore, that, in self-defence, Lord Allenby has made it a condition of the compulsory resignation that he should be permitted to make a statement on the reasons for his resignation. The statement will make instructive reading. Meanwhile, piquancy is lent to the present plight of Lord Allenby by the fact that three years ago it was he himself who went to England to insist on a policy of conciliation and threatened Mr. Lloyd George with his resignation if his advice was not taken.

Insecurity.

Close upon the French tactics to get the eastern frontiers of Germany stabilised through a security pact comes the speech of Dr. Stresemann, the German Foreign Minister, reaffirming the position taken by President Hindenburg that Germany cannot acknowledge the eastern frontiers as an immutable fact. The important question is not whether Germany is entitled to recover those territories like the so-called "Corridor" or the industrial towns of Upper Silesia which belong to her by right but how she is to get them back without provoking a fresh war. Dr. Stresemann, of course, derided the prospect of a German attack; Germany, as he pointed out, had not the army for it, even if she desired to embark upon so foolish an enterprise. Force being thus ruled out, negotiations remains the only effective means. But the main obstacle to a pacific revision of the treaty settlements is France who cannot abandon her proteges in Central Europe after having created them as counter-weights against Germany. Indeed, the only means by which such peaceful solution is possible would be a pact guaranteeing the western frontier of Germany for which she is ready and treating the eastern question as a distinct and separate issue to be settled by friendly adjustment. From the recent French note, however, it is evident that France on the contrary wants to guarantee the permanence of both and makes it the essential condition of a Franco-German Pact. That is the way not of ensuring security but of perpetuating grievances whose cumulative force may one day ruin the artificial and unjust structure of post-war Europe.

Benevolent Exploitation.

The insincere White Paper on Kenya which consigned Indians to the position of helots piously proclaimed that "the interests of the African native must be paramount." The history of the black man's burden in Kenya shows how hollow a cant that is. A recent incident makes it clear that the ruthless policy goes on merrily, moral platitudes of Downing Street notwithstanding. Last month Lord Delamere drew attention to the reprimand of a Kenya official, Col. Bell, who had given out some inconvenient facts in his evidence before the Masai Inquiry Commission. In that evidence, it appears that Col. Bell had stated that certain sums of the Native Trust Fund earmarked for specifi purposes had been diverted to other purposes and that he was ordered to send askaris or native troops to round up Masai children who were forced to attend school against the wishes of their parents. Moreover, under the humiliating Registration Ordinance all natives have to carry identification certificates on their persons and those of them who leave service without notice are liable to be flogged, subjected to fines or imprisoned. The Acting Governor recently announced that it is part of the Government's policy to procure labour for White settlers. To those who realise that the main instrument of the exploitation of the natives has been the Government of the Colony which has usually been a willing handmaid of the European settlers, the meaning of this readiness on their part to supply the Kenya Whites with labour force is only too clear. But those indulging in stupid imperialist generalisations and stale jargon of Guildhall banquets steadily refuse to face facts.

THE MAHARASHTRA REVOLT.

BY S. M. RAHMAN.

In one of my articles, contributed to "The Chronicle", on the eve of the presentation of an address to Mahatma Gandhi by the Bombay Corporation, which had caused a sudden recrudescence of "Gandhiphobia", I had commented on the persistence and virulence with which the malady occasionally manifests itself in certain quarters. "Every student of contemporary political history knows", I had remarked, "that it has always existed in some of the best brains in this country since the advent of that 'strange and incalculable figure' in Indian politics, who, according to even Sir Valentine Chirol, is a saint and prophet in the eyes of the multitude of his followers—saint in the eyes even of many who do not accept him as a prophet.' This hatred of the man and his methods was due to his spiritualisation of politics, the elevation of that much-abused human activity to the plane of passionate religion, a complete antithesis of the Machiavellism, than in vogue." When I wrote these lines, almost this day last year, I hardly anticipated that the revolt of Maharashtra against the "Visionary of Sabramati" would be organized so soon.

A Real Conflict of Ideals.

The supercilious tones, reminding one of the Anglo-Indian hauteur, in which the newfangled leader of Maharashtra Swarajists, who is, apparently, known better abroad than at home, calls, upon the Mahatma to retire from the Congress and leave that body to his tender mercies, is not an isolated outburst of a youngman in a fit of self-complacency. Nor is it a rhetorical device to capture the imagination of the audience with a littlte indulgence in bravado. The presidential address at Satara, which embodies the views of an important section of Swarajists, simply proclaims a complete want of faith in the Mahatma's gospel and heralds the revolt of Maharashtra, which has been awaiting an opportune moment for self-expression. It will also be erroneous to think that the present exasperation of the politicians of the Poona School is due to the introduction of the yarn franchise or their unsurmountable aversion to Charkha. It gives indications of a deeper and graver symptom—the intransigennce of an important political party, which, inspite of its lip-sympathies, never had any faith in Mahatma Gandhi's Non-Co-operation. Mostly consisting of hero-worshippers, Maharashtra has always looked upon "responsive Co-operation," which may mean anything and every thing but means nothing to the uninitiated, as the only panace for India's political ills.

Its Implications.

This proclamation of want of faith in the Mahatma's creed goes to the very root of our present political programme. If viewed from the right perspective, it will be apparent to every one who lays claim even to a modicum of intelligence that the Maharashtra Swarajist is bent upon Jeopardising the very existence of not only the Non-Co-operation movement but the National Congress itself. It is not the question of "Changers" or "No-Changers" it is the question of the very existence of the Congress as the Chief National organization. If the Sages of Satara are allowed to have their way, it will not only mean sounding the death-knel of the Congress but also a complete disruption of political life in this country inasmuch as that great National Institution will dwindle into a party, rather communal, organization. I wonder, if any of the speakers, who were waxing eloquent over the "accursed" yarn franchise and the retirement of its sponsor from politics, gave a moment's thought to the reasons which prompted the Mahomedan Community to enter the Congress fold at the clarion call of the Mahatma. But at the same time, it would be an insult to the intelligence of the shrewd Maharashtrian to think that he is ignorant of the fact that it was the "spiritualisation of politics" by Mhatma Gandhi which induced the Mahomedan community to join the Congress at the advent of the Non-co-operation movement and that it is the Mahatma's "non-political" programme and honest politics which are keeping the Muslims wedded to that body. Advocate of "Hindu Sanghatans" to fight the Mahomedans—to which class of "patriots" the President of the Satara Conference is the latest acquisition—could not be expected to inspire confidence in the Muslim community. The disappearance of the restraining influence of Mahatma Gandhi from the field of politics cannot but prove disastrous to the Nation by giving a new lease of life to communal organizations which are springing up in the country like mush-rooms and are accentuating internecine quarrels, inspite of well advertised, protestations to the contrary, of leaders on either side, some of whom occasionally protest too much. Is India prepared to "kill the Congress", render Hindi-Muslim problem insoluble, and defer Swaraj, perhaps, to the Greek Calends, at the bidding of a handful of "practical" patriots? If some of our compatriots wish to perform this "harakiri" they are at liberty to do so, but the whole country has no reason to take this fatal step.

Preparing for the Fall.

The Maharashtra Wing of the Swaraj Party has been, for several months past, preparing for the inevitable fall. The Whirligig of time has its own revenges. Only a few months back we had the unique spectacle of the valiant President of the Satara Conference, expressing willingness to accept the Minister-ship, which his Party had spurned last year, in uncompromising terms, and which His Excellency the Gov-

PERSIA'S "PROSPERITY"

BRITISH REJOICING

LORD BALFOUR'S SELF-COMPLACENCE'

LONDON, May 19.

Lord Balfour to-day made a statement with reference to Persia in the House of Lords in reply to Lord Lamington's enquiry for information in the course of which he reported that as far as he was able to ascertain Persia's finances were far more favourable than those of many of the more powerful states of the world who might congratulate it on its financial prosperity. He was given to understand that this was largely due to the American financial advisers and Persians could be congratulated on having made a good use of their service.

SHEIKH OF MOHAMMERAH.

He cordially endorsed Lord Lamington's view that Britain had great confidence in the Sheikh of Mohammerah who was under Persian sezerainty. He was pleased to learn that relations between the Sheikh and the Persian Prime Minister were now everything that could be desired. He had no official information as regards the Shah who was rumoured to be enjoying himself on the Riviera and he thought it inexpedient and indecorous to ask what that potentate's intentions might be.

ANGLO-PERSIAN RELATIONS

As regards the Anglo-Persian relations, Lord Balfour declared that the American critics mentioned by Lord Lamington as having alleged that England was behaving in a manner which was calculated to interfere with Persia's independence were evidently quite ill-informed as Britain's only policy under any Government was to see that Persia was independent and free.

"We desire to treat her as a neighbour on equal terms, one whose efficiency, civilisation, and power we have always regarded as a security for the general position in the East, so far as our own interests are concerned. We rejoice that Persia's independence has been made secure and that its prosperity is increasing".—Reuter.

SILK DUTIES.

MR CHURCHILL BOMBARDED IN COMMONS.

LONDON, May 19.

Mr. Churchill who presided this morning over this morning's meeting at the Treasury of the Committee of Silk Trade interests to consider the proposed scale of silk duties was bombarded in the House of Commons this afternoon with questions on the subject. He told one questioner that duty would not be charged on any silk or artificial silk articles worn by passengers entering this country and reasonable allowances would be made with regard to worn articles in personal luggage.

Thereupon, Miss Wilkinson pointed out that this would benefit a woman able to buy her dresses abroad.

Mr. Churchill in reply to another questioner said that wood-pulp was only liable to duty when it was converted into artificial silk. He did not tehink that the tariff would in any way affect the free import of raw material for paper.

Mr. Churchill referred another questioner who pointed out that artificial silk made from cellulose acetate was already taxed under German Reparations, to the Safeguarding of Industries Act. He also quoted the latter Act to another questioner whom he informed that where articles were liable to new import duties they were also liable to other duties. These duties would be merged and a greater duty only charged.—Reute

TAXATION INQUIRY COM

IRRIGATION ENGINEER'S EVIDENCE.

OOTACAMUND, May 18.

The Indian Taxation Committee commenced its enquiry here to-day at the Secretariat Buildings. The following members were present:—Sir Charles Todhunter (president), Sir Percy Thompson, Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan, Dr. Paranjpye and Dr. L. K. Hyder. Hon. Sir Jegendra Singh has not yet come.

The first witness examined was Mr. P. Hawkins, Chief Engineer for Irrigation Madras whose evidence related mainly to water rates in this presidency. In the course of his written statement the witness said that the objective of irrigation was to provide and increase food supplies and industrial crops, while the object of the supply of power so far as the state was concerned was mainly industrial development. Both were public services and the prices charged should be based on the bare return. Both were suitable media of taxation subject to the economic limit but in the case of new irrigation works and of power supply, the economic limit of taxation was low. As regards the works in this presidency that is the Wodavari and Kistna delta systems the taxation was very low in view of the existing economic conditions. As regards new works the bare return was approaching the economic limit in this presidency. The witness considered the "bare return" as the correct system and was strongly in favour of charging by volume. Selling water by auction would be impossible in this presidency and witness could not see how it could be done elsewhere as a general practice. Witness admitted that land will always remain the principle asset of industrial progress of the presidency and advocated the separation of land revenue and water rates. The price for water should be fixed by the cost of production. He further agreed that the ryots who made a contract should pay less than ryots who took water on demand. The witness advocated the state initiative with regard to a hydro-electric scheme.—A. P.

GERMAN NEW TARIFF PROPOSALS.

BERLIN, May 18.

Explaining the new tariff proposals which heavily increase the duties on cotton and woollen goods, artificial silk, and motor cars the Minister for Economic affairs said that they were merely transitory and intended to serve as a weapon against the bargaining of other countries with a view to reciprocal reductions. The economic reasons for the increases were heavy burdens on the industry through taxation, shortage of capital, and high rates of interest. The commercial reasons were that powerful competing countries, those from whom Germany drew her raw materials had introduced high tariff barriers lowering of which was essential to the German industry if it was to survive.

The Minister for National Economy said that duties on motor cars and tractors were of special character, because foreign manufacturers enjoyed an extraordinary start over the German motor industry. Therefore, duties on imported motor cars would be higher than on other products and would amount to about 350 Reichsmarks per vehicle. These duties would be reduced by half-yearly stages to normal tariff. Same procedure would be followed for a gradual reduction of the duty on tractors. As regards the customs duty on chemical products, which throughout was under ten per cent ad valorem, Government's proposals provided for lowering of these in return for compensating advantages.—Reuter.

A MAGISTRATE ASSAULTED

A DASTARDLY ATTACK.

NAGPUR, May 20.

Rao Saheb Nimbalkar, Tahsildar and Magistrate of Katol while conversing with his friends last night in front of his residential quarters at Katol was severely assaulted by some persons. His assailants who, it is alleged, attacked attacked him with bamboo lathis from behind were immediately arrested. Mr. Nimbalkar was brought to Nagpur and admitted into the Mayo hospital.—A. P.

EYE WITNESSE'S ACCOUNT.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NAGPUR, May 20.

Full details regarding the dastardly attack on Rao Saheb Bajirao Nimbalkar, Tahsildar of Katol and complainant in the defamation suit against the Editor of 'Maharashtra" were available from Mr. G. R. Pradhan, pleader of Nagpur, who happened to be an eye-witness of the scene.

Mr. Pradhan, who was interviewed in the Mayo Hospital to-night stated that there were persistent rumours for the last fortnight that Rao Saheb Nimbalkars life was in danger. After the police had withdrawn the case against his client, one Marwadi gentleman from Nagpur brought a case under the Vehicular Traffic Act. Rao Saheb returned to his house as usual and nothing untoward happened on his way. At 10-30 in the night yesterday while Rao Saheb and few of his friends were sitting outside his house three men, one of them with a Gandhi cap, suddenly came from behind and vehemently hurled blows after blows on Rao Saheb's head with big bamboo lathies, thus inflicting three gaping wounds. Rao Saheb would have been almost done to death, if he had not taken shelter underneath a table.

Mr. Nimbalker was brought to Nagpur in motor car and was admitted in the Mayo Hospital this morning. Though conscious, Mr. Nimbalkar sometimes feels very giddy and the doctors in attendance declare that he is not yet out of danger. The police have instituted vigorous enquiries and have arrested three men, one of them having been identified by Mr. Pradhan. It is suspected that the arrested men were hirelings and that few more arrests will shortly follow.

MADRAS, May 19.

At the fifth Presidency Postmen's Conference held at Conjeeveram under the presidentship of Mr. A. Rangaswamy Iyengar, M.L.A., resolutions were passed expressing gratification at the fact that the Government of India received a deputation of the All-India Postmen and the lower staff to represent their case before them and hoping that the Government would grant the demands embodied in the statement prepared by the Madras Presidency Postmen's Union and submitted to Government through the deputation in March last. The Conference also demanded that, pending the consideration of their grievances by the Government of India the retrenchment proposals recently carried into effect should be cancelled and that a full number of postmen, at least in all post offices where there were fewer than twenty-five post men, should be restored. Another resolution demanded that the pay of post men and lower staff should be correctly and properly fixed with effect from December 1919 and annual increments since withheld should be ordered to be paid forthwith.—A. ALLEGED ILLEGAL BEHAVIOUR OF STATE AUTHORITIES.

Rumours of a long sentence are rife. The Maharana is likely to be approached.

(9) That accused Nos. 1 to 8 did cause hurt to K. E. Mathew by means of a pistol and did aid and abet each other;

(10) That accused Nos. 1 to 8 were members of an unlawful assembly whose common object was to kidnap from British India Mumtaz and at the time the murder was committed in prosecution of the said common object, the members thereof knew that it was likely to be committed in prosecution of the said common object;

(11) That accused No. 9 did abet the commission of the murder of A. K. Bawla in pursuance of the said conspiracy to which he was a party;

(12) That accused No. 9 abetted the commission of the attempt to murder Lt. Saegert.

The Advocate-General, Mr. J. B. Kanga, with Mr. M. K. M. Kemp appeared for the Crown; Mr. K. F. Nariman watched the case on behalf of Mumtaz Begum. Mr. J. M. Sen Gupta with Mr. Nadkarni appeared for accused No. 1, Mr. S. G. Velinker for accused Nos. 2 to 8 Mr. M. A. Jinnah with Mr. G. M. Gupte appeared for accused No. 9

The following gentlemen made up the special jury: Messrs. B. B. Diwanji, D. R. D. Sethna, D. B. Karani, R. D. Morarji, A. Ezra, G. S. Nicholl, G. C. Pocock, P. P. Mistry and D. M. Mirza. Mr. Ruttonsey D. Morarji was foreman of the jury.

Mr. J. B. Kanga continuing his address to the jury, referred to the case of accused No. 9, A. G. Phanse, and said there was evidence of Nos. 2 and 9 being at the Orient Hotel in October. Again in November they were living at the Orient Hotel. The car was despatched to Indore about the beginning of December. He was also seen at Poona at the hotel with No. 2. No explanation whatever had been given about the car and the only explanation was that it was either destroyed or concealed or broken and sunk in some river. That was the only explanation of the whereabouts of a car which was purchased for Rs. 5,100 only a few months ago. It was practically admitted in his statement that the car was purchased for taking away Kamlabai, so that Shankerrao might be released. To say that Phanse did not know when the motor car was taken away, was futile. The statement that Shankerrao would be released if Kamlabai were taken to Indore could not be believed, because Shankerrao was convicted in 1924 for criminal breach of trust and it was ridiculous to suggest that a man who was convicted for such an offence would be released if Mumtaz were taken to Indore forcibly. The whole object of the conspiracy was to kidnap Mumtaz forcibly and Shankerrao'i name was merely introduced as an excuse. Was it a coincidence, asked counsel, that the wounds on the persons of the several accused should be all only one week old, as was stated by the doctor. He submitted his case was proved, and if the accused pleaded alibi, then they must prove it by evidence.

MR. SEN GUPTA'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Sen Gupta hoped that in a case involving a question of life and death the jury had kept their minds open. There was no doubt that Bawla was done to death on 12th that Saegert was shot at and that Mumtaz was tried to be kidnapped. Those facts had not been contested. In a criminal case the issue was a narrow one—whether the crown had proved the case against the accused. If these accused did not do it then who did it. It was not for them to consider who did it, but whether the accused who were there had done it. If the evidence was not enough to prove that the accused were guilty, then a verdict of not guilty must be returned. Simply because the accused had not preferred to call witness, the jury could not take it for granted that the case against the accused was established. It was not for the accused to supply facts or fill up gaps in a prosecution story. The onus of proof was absolutely on the Crown, and the jury had to see that the guilt was firmly established. If the accused had not called witnesses for defence, it was because the defence counsel found after the prosecution case was finished that the case against them was not established. The jury could not draw any inference because the accused had not brought any defence witnesses to rebut the prosecution evidence.

NOT IN THE FIGHT

The first proposition which he would put forward was that he was not in the fight, that he did not shoot Bawla, or Saegert or Mathew and that he had no pistol at all. They could not rely on Saegert's evidence that he saw a pistol in the hand of accused No. 1 Saegert's evidence was clear that before Mumtaz was dragged out she had cuts on her face. And even Mumtaz could not recognise any of the assailants, so far as the inside was concerned. There was no knifing when she fell out of the car. It was not clear that No. 1 was among those persons who were assaulting Mumtaz. Saegert said she was already cut before she was dragged out. Reasonable doubt must arise in all reasonable minds and there was reasonable doubt in this case.

Mathew could not recognise his own assailant, and that man must have shot Bawla also. Mathew could not recognise the man whose hand he was pushing away, and who was shooting Bawla. In a matter of life and death could they believe the assertion of a witness that he recognised Shafi Mahomed when he could not recognise his own assaillant?

It was seriously stated that Mathew who could not recognise a man who had shot at him, could well recognise a man who was merely passing by. It was not a fact that Bawla and Mumtaz stepped out of the car together, as Mathew had stated, but Mumtaz fell out of the car and Counsel thought that Mathew's evidence was not worthy of consideration. So far as the assailant with kukri was concerned, it was not No. 1, as Saegert had truly stated. Why did Mumtaz say that accused No. 1 was all along with her? It was merely to establish the identity of No. 1 and that motive was clear. And this statement was contradicted by other witnesses there. Counsel stated that the investigation in this case was not honest. Mahomed Shafi made a statement after he was injured, he was compelled to make it —and he withdrew it at the first opportunity in the Court. Mumtaz was telling a tie when she said that No. 1 was all along with her and Mathew's evidence also could not be

"EXTREMELY DISQUIETING"

SITUATION IN COAL TRADE

COUNTER-VAILING DUTY ON S. A. COAL DEMANDED.

CALCUTTA, May 20.

In the course of a representation to the Government of India, the Secretary, Indian Mining Federation says: "The situation today in the coal trade is extremely disquieting. The committee of the federation now feel that the Government should immediately refer the question of a bounty on Indian coal and increased tariff on foreign coal to the examination of the tariff board." The investigation and report by the Tariff Board is, however, admittedly a question of time but the position of coal trade hardly brooks any delay. Pending therefore, the report of the Tariff Board, the Committee of the Federation suggests as an interim measure the temporary imposition of a counfer-vailing duty on south African coal and strongly urges the reduction of railway freight both over long and short distance traffic and the withdrawal of the compulsory prepayment of freight. The committee has read with regret the composition of the grading Board, the establishment of which has been recommended by the Indian Coal Committee. They consider that the coal trade will not be sufficiently represented on the board according to the proposed constitution. It is, therefore, suggested that no consumers' representatives need be asked to sit on the Board and both the Indian Mining Federation and the Indian Mining Association may be represented on the Board by two members each."—A.P.

THE MAHARASHTRA REVOLT.

vernor, enjoying himself in his retreat on the Mahadeo Hills, has not yet condescended to offer. There was not even the saving grace of the "terms" which Mr. Das has offered to Lord Lytton. The C. P. Government are so much sanguine about the returning "sanity" in the local Swarajists that they have already rented two houses at Nagpur for the "khaddar—clad bureaucrats." If a curb is not put to their predilections, one fine morning we will find them installed in the Secretariat inspite of remonstrances of Dases and Nehrus. With Faridpur looking up to Whitehall and awaiting every "gesture" from its dingy portals and Satara confabulating on the necessity of accepting Minister-ship and storming the bureaucratic stronghold from inside", India has come to a pass which cannot but be heart-rending to every patriot.

The "parlour" of Bureaucracy.

This was inevitable indeed. Mahatma Gandhi himself is in some measure responsible for this state of affairs. He had with complete self-abnegation given, inspite of solemn warnings, such a latitude to a section of his countrymen that nothing but disaster could come out of it. There is a class of politicians whom if you give enough rope will end by hanging themselves. When the Swaraja Party decided to enter the Councils, thousands of Indians foresaw that the Swarajists were entering the "parlour" from which they would never be able to extricate themselves. There being no Via media between complete Co-operation and complete Non-co-operation under the present constitution, many people had grave misgivings about the success of a programme which purported to achieve things which were palpably impossible under the Government of India Act. And nobody knew this better than the British bureaucrat who had been patiently waiting to cross swords with the Indian politician on a ground on which he could have a firm foothold. The gospel of Charkha and non-violence had rendered him helpless, simply because it was mistifying to his materialistic mind, and he dreaded it with as much fear as a man dreads an incomprehensible danger. He could understand the gospel of violence and the wordy war-fare of constitutionalism, but he could not understand this new version of the Sermon on the Mount which he had long ago consigned into the limbo of oblivion. The entry into the Councils of the erstwhile Non-co-operators to fight with him with weapons which he himself had forged and wielded with uncommon skill for decades, gave him the chance of a life-time. Who can deny that he has taken full advantage of the opportunity? Is it a wonder if the Indian Swarajists came out of the fray only a second best? Baffled and disconcerted, the Berar Swarajists in particular are preparing to launch a flank-movement, which will, in all probability, land them in the midst of the Enemy himself.

The Duty of Congress-men.

The duty of Congressmen is clear. They should bestir themselves to cope with the situation which is threatening to do irreparable mischief to the cause of India's emancipation. Atleast, they should not co-operate in stabbing Non-co-operation in the back by the pseudo—Non-co-operater. The speed with which a certain section in Congress is approximating to the programme of easy-chair politics, which cannot but end in dribblets of reforms of which India has had sufficient experience, is bewildering enough. An apparent unity of really divergent views is the cruellest self-delusion that can befall a nation. Is India prepared to bury Non-co-operation alive, as a certain Governor tried to do with the Mahatma, and is Mahatma Gandhi himself prepared to become the Chief Mourner at the obsequies?

"BENEFIT OF DOUBT"?

relied upon. So far as Saegert was concerned it was proved that No. 1 did not shoot him. Could No. 1 shoot Bawla, asked Counsel? So far as the three men who were attacking Bawla on the ground were concerned, No. 1 was not amongst them. He asked the jury to scrutinise the evidence of Saegert and test it by the ordinary rules of evidence and not to accept it because it had come from Scegert. He asked the jury to try and remember the faces of those whom they passed in gas light, and saw only for a second, and whether it was possible to do so. He submitted it was not possible to do so. He did not say that Saegert was telling a lie, but he might have made a very honest mistake and he must have been making a mistake about the kukri. The wounds on his hand must have been caused by the kukri which Saegert had in his hand. As far as the evidence of Natanjan and Allabux and others was concerned, he would show to them that it was not worth the paper on which it was written.

BARGAIN FOR LIBERTY

Most of the witnesses who had given evidence had been kept in jail for one or two months. And the Advocate-General had asked what reason had these witnesses to speak falsely. The reason was this—it was to get back their liberty and come out of the jail. What reason was their to disbelieve them the Advocate-General had asked them? But he would ask what reason had they to believe these witnesses who were kept in jail over long periods? Allabux had said that it was on the 17th October that he received Bukshish, that he arrived at Aurora in the Maxwell car that day, but th car was not sold on that day: it was sold on the 23rd October. Allabux had stated that he had seen No. 1 at Aurora five or six days before the 17th October, and that was the prosecution case, whereas the accused had not asked for until the 16th of October. They would find out the discrepancy from this evidence. Immediately a man was absent from his duty it would have been entered in the books, and this could have been proved by the prosecution, and it had not been proved, yet it was said he was seen in Bombay five or six days previously. Coming to Natanjan Counsel said that witness too was under arrest for two months and four days; she never talked with any one; No. 1 was in another room and not in hers; she never spoke to him. Counsel said such kind of evidence was one which they could not rely upon. To Mr. Jinnah she had said that she had gone to Aurora house about seven days after the Diwali, yet to Mr. Velinker she had told another story by saying that it was about seven days before. Counsel asked the jury not to place any reliance on such evidence.

The Court then rose for lunch.

AFTER LUNCH.

Continuing his address in the afternoon, Mr. Sen Gupta said there was no proof that the pistol belonged to No. 1 or that it did not belong to other assailants. There was Mahomed Shafi's evidence that Bawla put his pistol in his pocket or put it into the pocket of the car. It was highly probable there was a pistol on this occasion which belonged to Bawla. Batley had said that the pistol was found in the rear of the car, and he asked the jury to look at this aspect of the evidence and judge for themselves. The pistol might have belonged to one of the assailants or to Bawla, but there was no evidence to show that it belonged to No. 1.

Coming to the evidence of Pai, counsel said they must remember that he was the servant of the State and was under Mulgaoker. Pai had found No. 1 in the room of No. 3 and the murder was committed three months after the incident, and yet he was connected with the conspiracy and murder.

WRECKLESS IDENTIFICATION.

Pai was most wreckless in his identification for he identified accused No. 5 as No. 1 and the object of the wrecklessness was to get his superior officer out of difficulty. They could not accept the evidence of a witness who had identified wrongly. Coming to the evidence of Pradhan, counsel said he had made a statement 12 days after the arrest of Mulgaoker, but not before. What prevented him from making his statement before that and why should he wait for such a long time? Pradhan had told them that he went inside but could not find the mali; yet the mali had told them that he was working there the whole day. How could they believe such a witness? Besides there were other discrepancies in the evidence of Pradhan and Mulgaoker, and there was no doubt that Pradhan, who was the creature of Mulgaoker, wanted to get the latter out of jail. Again Pradhan had told the Court that he identified the persons who were in the car. Was it to be believed that the car was going slowly at 7 or 8 miles per hour for the benefit of Pradhan and that the curtains were put up. That was an absurd statement to make, said counsel. He not only saw this car passing, but also two other cars, and to counsel's question as to how many persons were sitting in the Rolls Royce which had passed before, Pradhan had given them the number of persons going in that car! Could that statement be believed, and was it not a lie, asked counsel. He was prepared to swear to anything to strengthen his case by saying that he had seen accused No. 1 at certain places. Coming to January 10, Salweker had told them that h esaw No. 1 coming down the stairs of the hotel, although he had not talked to him or seen him before. Was it possible for a man to recognise the face of a person who had merely passed down the stairs only once like so many others?

"CONCOCTED EVIDENCE."

What value could they attach to the identification of the accused when he was brought by the Police officer with handcuffs on between two policemen? The owner of the garage, Khan Mahomed, was also very reckless in his identification of th accused. Could they rely on the identification of a man who could not identify the accused in the first instance, and had wrongly identified another man? Counsel said Bhima Satoo and also Tatya had given false evidence and that false evidence was concocted by the Police Officer who had taken No. 1 there. The Police officer who took an accused handcuffed before witnesses and asked them to identify the accused, did not know the first principles of his business. Besides, what did the Police officer do? He at once paid Rs. 2 to the boy for identifying the accused? How did the Police officer know that the boy who was bringing water from the jungle was the boy who had supplied water to the accused? And yet they were asked to believe that theory. He had no doubt in his mind, and he would not hesitate to tell the jury, that it was all concocted evidence and not to accept it. The evidence about the pistol was not such as could be accepted in a trial like this.

JURY'S RESPONSIBILITY.

Summing up the evidence counsel said no doubt when the gentlemen of the jury retired to their room to look into the evidence and criticise it, they would give the accused benefit of doubt if they found that the case was not firmly established against him. Counsel had his own responsibility, as the jury had theirs. But the responsibilities of the jury were very great and they were the judges of facts and inspite of whatever His Lordship might tell them with regard to facts and whatever counsel might tell them, they would come to their own conclusion in the matter. They must remember they were not bound by the opinions given either by the judge or the prosecution. Having regard to the fact that the pistol was found at the back of the car, having regard to the evidence of the expert that the bullets found in Bawla's body could have been fired by any other pistol, it was the duty of the jury to consider whether or not there was a reasonable doubt that Saegert made a mistake It was not necessary for the accused to show that the whole prosecution story was false. If the jury had any doubts in their minds as to the guilt of the accused they were bound to return a verdict of not guilty in a matter of such importance, a matter of life and death to the accused.

MR. VELINKER'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Velinker in addressing the jury after congratulating them on nearing the end of a long and arduous trial, asked them to disatuse their minds of any sensational newspaper reports, they might have read in press, since the crime was committed on the Malabar Hill on January 12. The outrage had since then been the subject of sensational journalism and the jury, along with the public, must have read the accounts in the press and they must have been impressed by them. It was a business proposition to create such sensations and increase the sales of newspapers and he was not concerned with its morality. His own concern about these sensational news was, so far as they concerned the facts. The newspapers had supplied news for the palate of the public which wanted sensational pictures of the crime. These writings were likely to impress the minds of jurors, and he asked them to purge their minds of all those impressions and to judge of the facts in an impartial way. He warned the jury not to swallow wholesale the evidence of military officers, to whose gallantry he paid a tribute, and appealed to them not to allow their judgment to be blinded by their admiration of the bravery of these officers. No other consideration than that of reason should weigh with them, said counsel.

WAR MURDER THE AIM?

The jury he said were the sole judges of facts, but they must remember that kidnapping was one thing and murder was another. The question for them to consider was whether the murder of Bawla was the probable consequence of the conspiracy to kidnap Mumtaz. Even if they came to that conclusion it was not enough. The jury must fairly presume the conspirators had foreseen that murder would be the probable consequence of their acts. It was most material to determine whether the people at Indore had reason to believe that the probable consequence of the conspiracy to abduct Mumtaz would be the murder of Bawla. It was beside the point whether Mumtaz was willing to go back to Indore or not and the Advocate-General had not made a single attempt to explain this point in his 7½ hours address to the jury. Had the accused Nos. 2 to 8 reason to believe that Mumtaz was willing to go to Indore? Mumtaz had sent two or three telegrams to Indore and the first one was that in accordance with the Maharaja's orders she had arrived at Amritsar; the reply from Indore was "I am much pleased of her safe arrival and that she should send intimation of her health.

At this stage the Court adjourned till 11-30 a.m. to-day.

POST GRADUATE REORGANISATION.

FURTHER DISCUSSION IN CALCUTTA SENATE.

CALCUTTA, May 19.

The discussion of the Majority and Minority Reports of the Post Graduate reorganisation Committee was resumed yesterday at the Senate Meeting. The Hon. the Vice-Chancellor presided. The attendance was as large as that of the previous day and there were more visitors.

After a discussion lasting for about two hours the amendment of Dr. Urquhart that the report be adopted, excepting so as as it was inconsistent with the Minority note was put to the vote and negatived.

Dr. Bruhl opened the discussion by criticising the minority view that sufficient consideration was not given to the teaching available for the Post Graduate work from local colleges. He said that the principle applied in the selection of part—time University teachers should be that they had previously done solid and valuable research work in their respective branches.

MR. OATEN SUPPORTS MINORITY REPORT

Mr. E. F. Oaten in supporting the minority report said:—

"If we had not really seriously considered the question of retrenchment we should have failed in our duty. We are, however, blamed, both the Majority and the Minority. The report as signed by both the Majority and the Minority proposed certain minor retrenchments though expansion under other terms of reference has swallowed up the proposed savings. The Minority proposed expansion in some direction, but a most careful husbanding of resources is another, thereby ecceking a total saving." Concluding Mr. Oaten said, "I am convinced that in the main contertion that economy in the Post Graduate Department is compatible with efficiency and will through the funds which it will set free for the colleges conduce to more vigorous intellectual life in the University as a whole, my colleagues are correct. This conviction reached, my duty was plain and I performed it by signing the Minority note. But I had even a more weighty reason for my action. Government are committed to the stabilisation of the Post Graduate Department. Through the mouth of His Excellency Lord Lytton it has been made quite clear that Government desire nothing more than to broadbase our financial stability on the foundation of a reciprocal understanding which shall have its roots in mutual trust and be free from any suspicion of restraint or domination. One year ago at a solemn moment His Excellency's words rang out "Let us build a temple of reconciliation in the last convocation". He again pledged the Government to the stabilisation of the Post Graduate Department. It seemed to me that if we made an honest examination of our resources and a real attempt at economy wherever this was compatible with efficiency the long misunderstandings between the Government and the University would once for all end. We could go to the Government and say: "We have honestly examined our expenditure. Such and such economies are possible. Give us a fixed annual recurring grant of so much on the understanding that as new needs arise we shall ask you for more and in return we guarantee to balance our budget every year". I have one professional wish which predominates over any other, to help towards the establishment of that reciprocal understanding between the University and the Government of which His Excellency spoke. That somehow, whether the majority or the minority prevail, we shall reach an understanding, I do not for one moment doubt. Government will not in my opinion prevent the building of the temple of reconciliation which we all desire by refusing to assist in laying its foundations but I wish that the moderation of our demands had been such that it would be easy to show that we had explored every avenue of economy and so rendered the path to mutual understanding as clear and open as daylight.

DR. HOWELLS SUPPORTS MAJORITY REPORT.

Dr. Deo Howells said that he had heard with a trembling heart from Mr. Oaten that more money given to the University would mean the depriving of the colleges, yet, he could not but wholeheartedly support the Majority report because he considered that the Majority had been true to the Mandate of the Senate while the Minority was not. Concluding Dr. Howells as said that the future of education depended upon the vision that they could bring to bear upon the question. There could be no solution unless they had a broad outlook. The only way was to equip the University better and the problems connected with colleges and schools would then solve themselves.

Dealing with the criticism that the Post-Graduate Departments were everstaffed Sir Nilratan Sircar drew a comparison between Cambridge and Calcutta and said that in Cambridge there were 12 teachers in the Department of Psychology alone.

Dr. Pramanath Banerjee wished the authors of the Minority Report had written their note with a fuller knowledge and a greater sense of responsibility.

Dr. Ganesh Prasad exposed the faulty analogies on which the note was based and the facts and figures which had been placed before the Senate were far more eloquent than any arguments that might be put forward by any of them.

Dr. Renan pointed out the utter lack of imagination and of vision on the part of the authors of the note.

Mr. Banerji wished to condemn the strong language and spirit in which the note was couched.

Mr. H. E. Stapleton said that they were all for stablishing the Porst-Graduate Department. The Minority had been fighting for the ideal of freedom—not the freedom which was to be limited to comparatively small number of people attached to the University. They were fighting for the old ideal of freedom—the ideal of Cambridge and Oxford where there was cordial co-operation between the staffs of the colleges and the staff of the University.

Rai Bahadur Chunilal Bose said that the amendment seemed to him to be very indefinite and very vague and he did not kno how they could accept it in its present form.

Kaviraj Jaminibhusan Roy supported the Majority report because it had been signed by the majority of the members including two Vice-Chancellors past and present. Referring to the Minority's criticism that the acceptance of the Majority report would have the effect of stereotyping the existing arrangements, he said the Majority had done their best to challege on it as far as possible.

RETRENCHMENT THE MAIN QUESTION

Mr. Surendranath Mullik said that they had been told that retrenchment was not the main question before them. He did not agree with this view. In his opinion retrenchment was the main question before them. He asked the House to consider the Minority Report with a view to find out if they could not effect any retrenchment on the lines suggested by them.

Mr. Pramathnath Banerjee in winding up the debate said that the result of the rejection of Dr. Urquhart's amendment would lead to a debate for the consideration of the several other amendments.

The amendment of Dr. Urquhart was then put to the vote and declared lost 12 voting for and 41 against.

The Hon. Mr. Khajendranath Mitte moved that the reports be referred back to the Committee for further consideration. He said that its importance had been overlooked. The Minority report contained some proposals for retrenchment and these proposals could not be brushed aside as of secondary importance. The effect of going up to the Government with growing deficits would be a repetition of the same unpleasantness. The University wuld be starved and the security of services would be gone. Mr. J. C. Dutt seconded the amendment.

The amendment was negatived by 34 to 14 votes. The discussion was adjourned till to-day.—(A. P.)

DISTURBANCE IN JUTE MILL

SEQUEL TO FALSE RUMOUR.

CALCUTTA, May 20.

There was a disturbance at the Presidency Jute Mill, Rishra, about fifteen miles from Calcutta, yesterday. It is reported that on the previous day a weaver was detected by the mill durwan while cutting out leather from a belt. He was brought before the manager who reprimanded him. A rumour was spread that the weaver was murdered which excited the millhands. Next day a large number of workmen were found absent, but the mill, however, resumed work. After a short time it was noticed that a large number of weavers, who did not return to work, were rushing towards the mill manager and cashing him in an excited mood. The manager managed to get inside the godown. In the meantime a European assistant and a durwan came to the assistance of the Manager. Mr. Mackenzie the assistant and the durwan received injuries by brickbats hurled at them. Soon the police arrived on the scene and dispersed the mob. The work in the mill has been suspended and the mill is being guarded by police.—A. P.

DISCOURTESY TO MAULANA SHAUKAT ALI.

MR. TAIRSEE'S LETTER TO PORT TRUST.

Mr. Lakhmidas Rowji Tairsee has addressed the following letter to the Acting Secretary of the Bombay Port Trust:—

Sir,—In continuation of my last letter on the subject of Port Trust and pilgrims I send you herewith cuttings from the "Bombay Chronicle" of to-day. The object of sending them is to enable you to complete your file on the subject and as my motion is likely to come at the next meeting of the Board I will be obliged if the Chairman will look into the matter of personal discourtsey to which Maulana Shaukat Ali refers in restrained language unusual to Maulana. You will agree with me that, apart from the question of facilities, such conduct is unpardonable in a public servant whose duty is, to be polite and do his work. The Board, on the other hand, should appreciate the help of voluntary institutions and I will be obliged if the Chairman can see his way to issue instructions that free access in the docks and sheds is given to Maulana Shaukat Ali and his workers. Please note that at the time of the next sailing of the boat I intend to be present there and see things with my own eyes.

is no more matter of theory or inference but a fact which is too apparent to be ignored.

The third item of Mahatmaji's programme relates to spinning and khaddar and this is perhaps the only item to which efforts of the No-Changers are actively directed. The credit for this is due to the vigilance of the All-India Khadi Board, the only department of Congress activities which has a central organisation, with men and money behind it.

Regarding National Education the movement has almost completely collapsed in severa places and is collapsng in others.—The "Hindusthan Times."

FROM RAVI TO BRAHMAPUTRA.

(BY LALA LAJPAT RAI.)

I left Lahore on the 31st of March, 1925 and returned on the 30th, April spending the interval on a trip from Ravi to Brahmaputra, mainly in the interests of the Hindu Sangathan movement. In the course of this trip, I visited Bihar, Bengal Orissa and Assam and studied the position of the Hindus from various points of view. The impressions I formed are of a mixed character, on the whole painful and rather discouraging though not without hope of improvement, if organised efforts were made to put heart into the scattered and disintegrated ranks of the people.

THE CONGRESS.

My first impression was that, as a vigorous organization the Congress was practically non est. It was not functiong. The skeleton of the organisation was there, more or less contracted, withered or withering, with bones dropped out or dropping without any definite plan of work and without any activities worth the name. Let us examine the position a little in detail. Mahatmaji's programme of Congress work consits of 3 items:—

(1) Spinning and Khaddar.
(2) Hindu-Muslim unity.
(3) Removal of untouchablity.

I will take them one by one in the reverse order.

Towards th eremoval of untouchability, the Congress as such is doing nothing, at least in North India. In U.P., Babu Purshottam Das Tandon is doing some work in this line, but all the money is being supplied by me and the principal man in charge of the work, next to Mr. Tandon, is a member of the Tilak School of Politics. The Congress, as such, collects and spends no money on this work.

In Bihar, nothing is being done by the Congress organization in this line. Babu Rajendra Prasad has promised to start work with money to be supplied by me....

Exactly the same thing may be said of Orissa and Assam. Babu Gopabandhu Das has promised to work in Orissa if money is placed at his disposal, and Mr. T. R. Phookan in Assam on the same condition.

About Bengal I am very reluctant to speak, but I can say this much that nothing substantial is being done in this line by the Congress organization, though Congressmen are exhibiting a good deal of interest in it.

HINDU-MUSLIM UNITY

As regard Hindu-Muslim Unity, I found that in the core of their hearts, the bulk of Hindu Congressmen are still true Nationalists and they are afraid to take up the work of the Sangathan lest they should have fallen from their ideals, though everywhere I heard complaints of Muslim attitude and Muslim aggression. In Bihar and Orissa, the Muslims are making herculean efforts to get representation on local bodies and in the service on the principle of the Lucknow Pact, ignoring the fact that the Lucknow Pact relates only to representation in the Legislature.

In the higher branches of the public services, the Muslims have already 23 per cent of the total posts (having risen from 18 per cent. of the pre-Reform period). In the lower services their percentage, I was told, is much higher. On Local bodies, as well, their representation is much larger than would be justified by their numbers, but active efforts are being made to get it raised to 55 per cent. all round, their provincial per centage in the population being only 12.

Hindi is the recognised vernacular of the province of Bihar and Ooriya that of Orissa. Efforts are being made to have Urdu also recognised for all official and semi-official purposes. The Provincial Legislature has turned down the proposal but both the communities are agitated over it.

In Orissa there is no trouble visible on the surface. The Hindu activities are nil and the Congress activities only on paper. Some Hindus complained of aggressive Muslim activity in the matter of Hindu women,—mostly pilgrims who come their unprotected and unaccompanied by males.

In Bengal the burning topic of the day which finds much angry expression in the Press re ates to the increasing number of cases of abduction and kidnapping of Hindu women. The same is the case in Assam.

"UNJUSTIFIED".

Except in Bengal and the Punjab, throughout Northern India, the Muslims are enjoying political rights and privileges much in excess of their numbers and here is absolutely no justification for the complaint that the Hindus have not played the game and have not been fair to the Muslims In the Punjab, the disparity when it existed was not due to any aggressive actior of the Hindus. Now it is being made up rapidly and as regards representation on the Local bodies. it is being more than made up.

So the position is this, that in provinces where Muslims are in a minority, efforts are being made not orly to retain the over-weightage granted to them by the Lucknow Pact in the Legislatures, but also to extend the same principle to Local bodies and Government services; while as regards Bengal and the Punjab, it is sought to overthrow the Lucknow Pact in the matter of representation in the Legislatures and to have the principle of population accepted for all purposes. Legislatures, Local bodies and the Services.

The worst feature of the situation is that even the social relations of the educated sections of the two communities are strained. The tension is increasing as the secret propaganda for conversion by any means is coming to the surface. That such a propaganda is being actively carried on,

ALLEGED MISAPPROPRIATION.

A LADY'S APPEAL.

ALLAHABAD, May 19.

At the Allahabad High Court yesterday an appeal was filed before Sir Grimwood Mears, Chief Judge, on behalf of Miss Adelaide Neuville, a resident of Old Survey Road, Dehra Dun, who was convicted by the Assistant Sessions Judge of Dehra Dun of offence under Section 411 Indian Penal Code (Criminal misappropriation) and sentenced to nine months' rigorous imprisonment. Along with her were convicted four other persons who were also sentenced to two years and two and a half years'. The case referred to the property of one C. J. Neuville, father of the accused, who died at Dehra Dun on 8th May 1923 leaving an estate valued at about three lakhs and the accused with Indian servants and their relatives was alleged to have criminally misappropriated the property of the deceased consisting of G. P. Notes and jewellery, etc. under very peculiar circumstances. Some property was found in possession of the accused and was alleged to have been sent by them for sale to a firm of Calcutta brokers. It is alleged that the accused lady who was living with her father at the time of his death gave an unsatisfactory account of the property to other relatives which led to police enquiry with the above result. One of the pleas taken on the appeal was that the accused was not mentally sound. The Chief Justice admitted the appeal and ordered that the lady may be admitted to bail to the satisfaction of the District Magistrate.—(A. P.)

BAJIRAO ANNIVERSARY.

NAGPUR, May 18.

On the occasion of the first anniversary of Peshwa Bajirao First, Dr. Moonje, speaking with reference to the objections raised against such celebrations, said the enemies of Peshwa Bajirao were not Hindu converts to Islam but foreigners who had come to India from beyond its frontiers. As the Hindus converted to Christianity by the English or other missionaries could not lay claim to national heritage raised up by, say, Nelsons and Wellingtons, or Bismarks and Hindenburgs, Napoleons and Fochs, or by Washingtons and Wilsons, even so Hindu converts to Islam could conceivably have nothing in common with Mohomed Gaznavi or Akbar or Aurangzeb. "The creatures of foreigners establishing domination over an alien nation and aspiring to destroy its national individuality, culture and religion can eventually deserve no better fate in the dispensation of divine justice.—A. The seaplane was towed by the forest launch to a place in front of the River Police Office at the Inbawseik quarter for the engine oil. It is raining heavily here and cloudy all over. The time of departure of the seaplane has not yet been settled. It will probably depart to-morrow, weather permitting.—A. P.

ANDAMANS COLONISATION SCHEME.

CALCUTTA, May 18.

Another band of Anglo-Indian young men is on its way to the Andamans under the leadership of Capt. Amber, an ex-officer of the Indian Army. In January last Captain Amber obtained the lease for 99 years of Red Skin Island in the Andamans and recruited a couple of Anglo-Indians and three ex-convicts and cleared the jungle to some extent after which he built some huts. Finding that the land was virgin soil and there was a good prospect of cultivation he came to Calcutta, laid his scheme before the Unemployment Committee and offered to take five young Anglo-Indians back with him at his own cost and teach them agriculture and farming and support them while there. Should the men fulfil his expectation he would then be willing to sub-let them portions of his land for the purpose of carrying on independently. The men were selected by Captain Amber himself and were equipped with necessary clothing by the Unemployment Committee. The names of the five adventurers are W. H. Byers, H. C. Johnstone, C. V. Rodricks, C. W. Brown, and J. O. Wood. Mr. Cahcon with his little son and Mr. Faria are going with Capt. Amber at their own expense.—A. P.

ABOLITION OF TOLL IN MADRAS.

MADRAS, May 19.

At a conference of the members of the local and municipal advisory committee, presided over by the Raja of Pannagal, the Minister for local self-government, the question of the abolition of toll and substitution of other taxes in its place was discussed and it was agreed that the toll gates were a considerable inconvenience to a rapid traffic namely motor cars which had to stop suddenly at toll gates. It was finally agreed that the abolition of taxes should be restricted to motor traffic. The committee however reserved the final adoption of the recommendations until statistics were obtained from various local bodies as to the amount of tolls collected on motor vehicles. Among other questions considered at the conference was one regarding the exemption of co-operative societies from the Companies' tax and profession tax. It was agreed that they should be exempt from the Companies' tax but should pay profession tax.—A. P.
